Dear Anne,

Please note the following review of the meeting held on Friday, 21st June 2013 at Casey Hospital between Dr Tennent Tampiyappa, my mother, yourself and I.

When you filled in the “request for a person to receive involuntary treatment from an approved mental health service” form; probably at the request of Dr Tennent Tampiyappa; you were clearly intruding on an area of responsibility best left up to one's own mother. As my mother was also at that meeting, you can be sure that if she had thought that my involuntary treatment was indicated, she would have filled this form in given the opportunity. Clearly, this form is simply a legal obstacle that you must overcome in order to get me to service Dr Tennent Tampiyappa at the expense of my very own personal mental health.

I believe the four weeks of involuntary hospitalization which followed only occurred because you, Anne, intruded on my mother's personal area of responsibility. As my mother has requested my involuntary treatment on multiple occasions, you can be sure that if she believed it warranted, she would have requested it this time.

I feel it clear that as you did not even ask my mother for her opinion, what occurred was only an attempt to get me to release Dr Tennent Tampiyappa at the expense of my very own personal mental health. When considering our exchange, all that was indicated for me to recover, was to go back to the supportive environment of my own home and cool off for half an hour.

Yours sincerely,

David Crofts.

P.S.

You break my link to my own mother in the name of my own supposed necessary treatment.

You oppose me and you even oppose my mother !!!!

The clear intent of the legislators of the mental health act 1986 was that the form in question be completed by someone outside the medical profession so as to serve as a check and balance upon it, and you, Anne, are in clear violation of the spirit of this legislation.
